

Universal Petition to End Dress Code Starts and Dies

By Sakinah Storks (2020), Campus Editor

TITANTOWN- Lately, there has been an outbreak of dissatisfaction with the general dress code of public schools. Students express the fact that they feel uncomfortable with adult staff correcting what they wear. Titan Town is no exception.

A petition, started by an unknown female student, is spreading around social media. The student states her mission is to end dress codes at every school, citing h\Uh]h]g1k fcb['UbX'XY[fUX]b[1'k \Yb'gYW f]m[i UfXg']bhYffi dhU'gh XYbhỹgWcc`` day over something as minor as showing a bra strap. She feels that students should have freedom and the right to judge their own attire.

School officials cite safety, modesty and education as reasons for a dress code. The GTHS handbook is no exception. "The purpose of the student dress and grooming regulations is to maintain a safe and orderly environment, to promote modesty, and to encourage students to dress appropriately and to come to school properly prepared for participation in the educational process," says the GTHS Student Handbook.

A male student (name withheld) commented on the online petition, saying that students are stopped selectively. He said some security guards at his school are unfair when they cite a female student showing a bit of her bra, and then shrug it off

TITANTOWN- Have you ever seen someone walking around campus and wondered what they were wearing and why they were wearing it? Maybe they always cover their hair, or maybe they never wear shorts. Those people might be Muslims, followers of the Islamic faith.

The personal dress code for some Muslims might differ from what others wear, but h\YfYNg bc fYUgcb hc VY]bh]a]XUhYX"H\YX]j Yfg]hn]b k\UhA i g]a g k YUf Wb fUb[Y Zfca shirts and shorts, to full coverage from head to toe - it all depends on the person.

A common misconception is that the more a Muslim covers, the more religious they UfY"H\UMy bchbYWggUf]mtfi YžVYWi gYmci 'bYj Yf'_bck 'k\Uhgca YcbY']gH\]b_]b['cfi what they do when they get home. The best thing to do if you have a question for some one who dresses in a way that you are not familiar with is to ask them about it, and get answers straight from the source.

Muslims, as well as the other cultures, have trends in fashion, say students who follow h\UhZJh\"115'hfYbX'k jh\jb'h\Y'A i g`ja 'Wta a i b]mjg'Vtj Yf]b['i dži'gU]X Alia Contractor f&$&$E''7cbhfUWcf XYgWf]VYg \Yf'gmY'Ug î ^ ghg\]ffg'UbX dUbhg'Yj YfmXUmi' K \Yb'Ug_YX`JZ the weather ever affects her personal dress code, she explained that even in the heat, shorts are not a part of her personal dress code. There have been many cases of Muslims customizing clothing or just dressing fancy while still following their personal dress code. Overall, the usual Muslim dress code is very versatile.

TITAN TOWN- Schools all over the world are finding ways to attract students to join extracurricular activities and the DJ Club here at Grand Terrace is just what some students might be looking for.

Mr. Adrian Merendon (English), put together this club to get students interested in music and to get a feel or a head start into DJing. New this year, about ten students are in the club so far. Mr. Merendon, who is also known by his professional DJ tag, DJ Merenden, teaches the mixing of the music and special effects. At the Sept. 12 meeting, students played with different samples of music and learned how to mix the music Mr. Merendon provided.
